

Getting started with Storefront Desk

Storefront Desk gives you two things:

- A mini storefront — a link your customers open to browse your products and build an order.
- An order desk — where every order lands so you can track it from pending → delivered → paid, without scrolling back through chats.

This guide walks you from sign-up to accepting your first order. It takes about five minutes.

1. Create your account

Go to the sign-up page and fill in one short form:

Field	What it's for
Email + password	Your login.
Business name	Shown to customers. It also becomes your storefront address (<code>/s/your-shop</code>) — you can change this later in Settings.
WhatsApp number	Where storefront orders are sent. Include the country code (e.g. <code>+1 555 210 4477</code>).
Instagram handle	Optional. Adds a "Send on Instagram" option for customers.
Currency	The currency shown across your storefront and desk.

You can expand Customise colour and delivery note now or skip it — sensible defaults are already set.

Click Create my storefront. Your account and storefront are created together, and you land straight in the desk.

2. Find your way around the dashboard

The dashboard is your home base.

- Set up your shop — a checklist that walks you through the remaining steps. Work through it top to bottom.
- Stat tiles — to dispatch, open orders, outstanding balance, low stock. Click any tile to jump to a filtered list.
- Left sidebar — Dashboard, Orders, Products, Storefront, Settings.
- + New order (top right) — add an order by hand, for a sale that didn't come through the storefront.

3. Add your first product

From the checklist, click Add a product (or Products → Add in the sidebar).

Only two fields are required:

- Name
- Price

Add a stock quantity if you want the app to track inventory, or open More details for a description, category, photo, and SKU. A photo is optional but makes your storefront look far better.

Click Save product. Repeat for the rest of your catalog, or import many at once with Import CSV.

4. Share your storefront

Open Storefront in the sidebar. On the right you'll find Your link and a QR code.

- Copy the link into your Instagram bio, WhatsApp status, story highlights, or email signature.
- Print the QR code for your counter, packaging, or business cards.

On the left, the Settings panel controls how your storefront looks and behaves — accent colour, category filter chips, a delivery/payment note, and a switch to pause the page when you're not taking orders.

How it works

5. What your customer sees

When someone opens your link, they get a clean, branded shop on their phone — your products, your colour, your delivery terms.

They tap Add on the items they want, adjust quantities, and open their order.

6. The customer sends you the order

After picking items, the customer enters their name, phone, and delivery address, then confirms.

They see an Order placed screen with a Send on WhatsApp button (and Send on Instagram, if you set a handle). Tapping it opens the chat with the full order pre-filled — the customer just hits send.

The order is only sent once the customer taps that button. The full order text is also shown on screen so they can copy it manually if anything goes wrong.

7. The order lands in your desk

Every storefront order appears in Orders — and on your dashboard — marked Pending. You'll also get an email for each new order.

Pending rows are tinted and show a Review button instead of the usual status controls.

8. Accept (or decline) the order

Open the order. A banner at the top lets you:

- Accept order — turns it into a confirmed order and commits the stock. From here you track delivery and payment as normal.
- Decline — with an optional reason.

Once accepted, use the Delivery and Payment controls to move the order through dispatch and mark it paid. That's the full loop.

What's next

- Orders — search, filter by status, and page through your history. Export to CSV any time.
- Settings — change your business name, storefront address, currency, default delivery fee, and password.
- Dashboard tiles — your daily check: what's to dispatch, what's owed, what's low on stock.

Your storefront is live from the moment you add a product. Share the link and take your first real order.
